My question for this weeks lab is what other functions for strings would be useful in every day coding? I noticed the empty() function was available but didn't use it do to a lack of understanding.